Koller Outdistances Opponents; Elected Head Cheer Leader

In the class elections which were held last Wednesday Ed Osorio defeated Eleanor Gigli for the office of senior class president. Lou Rubin was automatically elected by his running unopposed for the office of junior class prexy. In a hotly contested race, Dick McClure downed Frank Shaw.

The duties of the frosh class leader fell to newly-arrived Jim McCann, who defeated Phil Ryan.

As the other senior class officers were uncontested, Syme Stepanian will be senior vice-president; Margaret Schramm, secretary-treasurer; and Rusty Speiss Lee, sergeant-at-arms.

Joan Uhler is the new junior class vice-president; Frances Bessone will take the class minutes and Dorothy Cook will be the sergeant-at-arms.

Close Competition

The close competition in the sop class placed Audrey Contriano as vice-president; Dorothy Damnon, secretary; and Phyllis Norin, sergeant-at-arms.

The freshman class appeared at the ballot box with more enthusiasm than any of the other classes, electing Jean Spaulding as vice-president and Bill Clark as secretary.

Rita Koller was elected to the important spot of head cheer leader when she outdistanced the other four girls who also ran.

Co-op to Extend Hours; More Aid Is Still Needed

The Co-op may soon extend its daily schedule until 4:15 p.m. if enough help can be obtained, according to Manager Bob Lamberson, who said that the present early closing is the result of too few employees to handle the work.

Meanwhile jobs are still available in the Co-op between the hours of 11 and 1 o'clock. More help is needed during the rush hours; service is to be improved. Those interested in working should see Manager Lamberson in the Co-op.

State Registration Continues Upswing

With an increase in enrollment of 24 per cent over last fall's registration, State has welcomed 488 new students to the campus this semester.

Total registration today of 1063 includes 817 women, 151 men and 95 limited students. Last year at this time total registration of 858 included 671 women, 119 men and 68 limited students. These are complete figures of the fall registration compiled and reported by Miss Florence Vance, registrar.

Mendelson Named Gater Copy Editor

Lillian Mendelson, reporter, was appointed copy editor of the Golden Gater at the last meeting of the Board of Publications, replacing Wilma Gibson, who failed to return to State.

Position of managing editor of the Gater, vacated by Betty Cloak due to illness, will temporarily be filled by Hy Bik, feature writer, pending approval of his petition by the board at the next meeting.

Harry Erlich, Gater managing editor last semester, will take over the editorship of the Franciscan. Duane LaMon, Franciscan managing editor, stated the several editorial positions have yet to be filled. Petitions for these offices will be accepted by the Board of Publications.

DO YOU GET UP EARLY? HERE'S A JOB FOR YOU

The library is desperately in need of a student who will dust the library every morning between the hours of 7 and 8 o'clock. The lack of regular janitorial help makes it necessary to solicit student workers. Anyone interested should see Miss Ruth Fleming in the library.

Ex-Stater Lt. Bill Shinn Shot Down Over Germany Is Now At Dibble Hospital

Somewhere on the campus, there's a handful of students who remember First Lieut. William E. Shinn as a friend. Bill Shinn urgently needs these friends now.

Bill attended State until his enlistment in the Army Air Forces in February, 1943. He went overseas in November, 1944, and served as first pilot with an Eighth Air Force bomber squadron. On March 18, 1945, his plane was hit by anti-aircraft fire over Berlin.

Remained at Controls

As Bill remained at the controls, waiting for his crew to bail out, flames licked his hands and face, and burned the jacket from his back. Leaving the bomber at 18,000 feet, he parachuted through space for twenty-five minutes, and landed on a paved street in the heart of the German capital at twenty-five miles per hour. He received a compound fracture of his left ankle.

Imprisoned by Germany
Civilians immediately gathered around him, kicked him, spit upon him, and stole his valuables. Policemen rescued him as he was about to be "finished off" and imprisoned him in an empty schoolhouse where his wounds went untreated for several days.

Nearly Bombed Out

Before his rescue, Bill was nearly bombed out in an American raid, and went through Russian-German cross fire miraculously unscathed.

Now, Bill is at Dibble Hospital in Menlo Park and will be there for many more months. In a letter to the college, his mother states, "He is greatly in need of some of his young friends . . . We are anxious for him to go back and finish his education and hope someone from State could persuade him to . . . he loved college so much."

Mrs. Shinn may be reached at 4684 Edgewood Avenue, Oakland, phone ANd. 9931.

Lectures Series Begins At F. B.

Two noted lecturers are conducting a series of talks on "Human Relations" for the students' parents at the Frederic Burk Auditorium on Wednesdays from 11 a. m. to 12 noon, and for teachers in room 210, Anderson Hall from 4:30 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. The series started last Wednesday.

The next lecture will be given by Dr. Bertha Shedd Mason, a graduate of Stanford University and college physician at San Jose State College for thirteen years. Her yearly lectures on "Social Relations in College" have been very popular with the Stanford University girls.

Dr. Noel Keys, consulting psychologist and professor of education at the University of California, will give the following lecture "Looking Toward Marriage," on October 24. Dr. Keys has directed the course in Human Relations at the University of California since its start in 1939. The schedule of lectures follows:

October 17, Dr. Mason, "Understanding Emotional Development From Infancy to Maturity."

October 24, Dr. Keys, "Looking Toward Marriage."

October 31, Dr. Mason, "Development at Puberty: Boy-Girl; Man-Woman."

November 7, Dr. Mason, "Specific Needs and Interpretations: Pre-School, As The Twig Is Bent."

November 14, Dr. Mason, "The Adolescent, Reaching For Maturity."

November 28, Dr. Mason, "Human Reproduction: How Life Begins and Develops."

TEACH LIFE DRAWING AT MR. HASSELL SMITH TO STATE THIS SEMESTER

Mr. Hassel Smith specialist in life drawing from the California School of Fine Arts has been appointed to teach life drawing this semester.

Although born in Michigan Mr. Smith has lived for a number of years in San Francisco. He received his BS degree at Northwestern University in Chicago, and received further training at the California of Fine Arts where he is now teaching life art at the night school.

Last year he taught children's classes in creative art at the Mission Community Center and at the Booker T. Washington Community Center.

Mr. Smith has done much professional painting including composition and portraiture. His works have been exhibited at the San Francisco Museum of Fine Arts, at the Chicago Art Institute, and at Portland, Oregon.

EX-STATAR PASTOR OF BAPTIST CHURCH

Harry Larson, assistant minister of the First Baptist Church of San Francisco for more than a year, was recently called to the pastorate of the First Baptist Church of South San Francisco.

As a student of State during the past year, Harry has devoted much of his time in leading and speaking at the Student Agathaeon meetings. He will continue his studies at State for an indefinite period of time.

Dr. Frank Fenton, recently discharged from the United States Merchant Marine, recounts his numerous adventures in foreign countries to Gater reporter, Doris Thulin. (Story on Page Four.)

Gridiron Spirit Reigns At First Dance Tonight

Gridiron spirit will reign over the women's gym tonight when "Pigskin Scrimmage," the first dance of the term, is presented by the student body from 8:30 p.m. to 11:30 p.m.

Bids in the shape of a football will add a novel effect to the affair. The "Alligator Crawl," "Princeton Polka," and the "California Conga" will be among the featured dances on the card.

Attendance to Be Large

Attendance at the frolic is expected to be large as over 50 bids were sold as of Wednesday, stated Ed Osorio, dance committee member. Tickets may still be obtained at the booth in College hall and at the door of the gym tonight. Admission is 75 cents a couple with a student body card and $1.00 without the card.

Patrons and patronesses for the dance will be Dr. and Mrs. Elias Arnesen, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Ellsworth, and Dr. and Mrs. Carlo Lastrucci. Students on the committees are Ed Doty, Eleanor Gigli, Rusty Lee, Helena Mitchell, Caroline Nahman, Bill Novales and Ed Osorio.

Inklings Needs Student Help

Do your friends compliment you for writing gay and witty letters? Do you think that English 2 composition you wrote was pretty hot stuff? If so, you can write, and Inklings, State's magazine, wants to hear from you.

The demand for humor and satire is particularly urgent, but fiction, essays, and poetry on any topics will be gladly accepted for approval. Inklings is exclusively student written.

Contributions should not exceed 1500 words in length, should be typewritten and double spaced. If the contributor desires, he may temporarily withhold his name and give his post box number only. All material will be returned, whether or not it is acceptable. Contributions should be inserted in post box 1006 not later than Friday, October 19.

Novels As Well As Classics Are Needed in Drive

Contemporary novels as well as classics, are needed to make the books-for-Russia drive a success in the College.

The book drive will continue in the College under the chairmanship of Mr. Hugh C. Baker, and for San Francisco under the direction of Dr. J. Paul Leonard.

Both students and faculty, as well as their neighbors, are urged to contribute to this drive, for if Russia is to understand the American way of living, her libraries must contain books typical of America, declared Mr. Baker.

Middletown Suggested

When asked "What book do you think would best express the American way of life to the Russian people?" a number of answers were received from faculty members and students. Dean Walter J. Homan suggests "Middletown" by Robert S. Lynd as giving a worthy description of America's middle class. Mrs. Ruth Baker of the library staff believes that "Archie and Mehitabel" and "The Old Soak's History of the World" by Don Marquis typify American humor. Mrs. Olive T. Cowell suggests "One World" by Wendell Willkie, because of its value and the significance of its title. Kay Bannister, a student, recommends "The Valley of Decision" by Marcia Davenport, for its treatment of the American way of life. Martha Lyon suggests "Main Street" by Sinclair Lewis, as an American story.

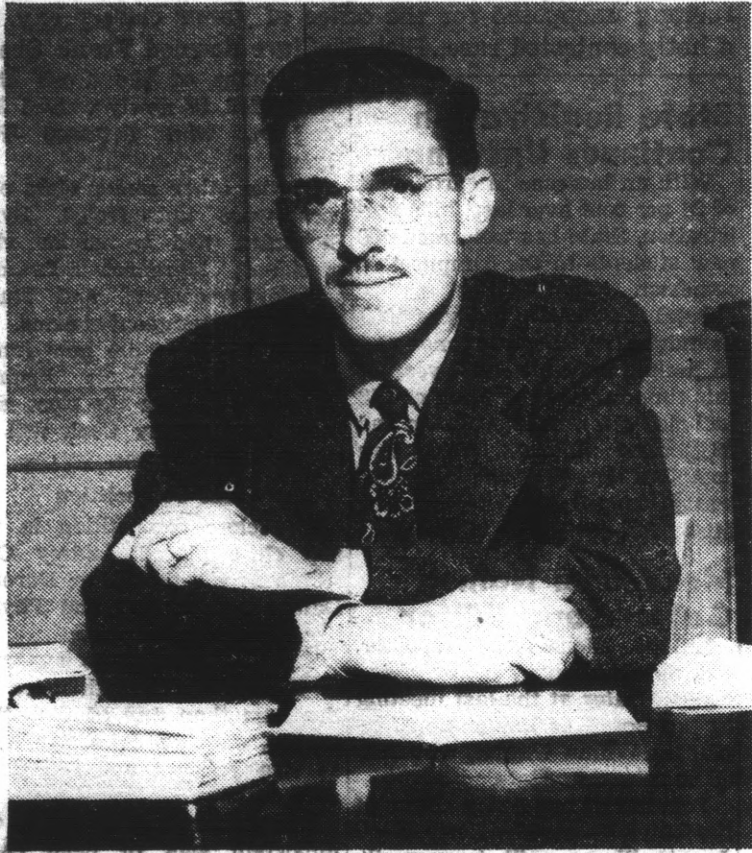

Mr. Baker hopes that the faculty and students, as well as the various organizations on the campus, will support this drive and make it a success here at the College.

MEET THE FACULTY

One of State's latest members of the science staff is R. Will Burnett, a native of Des Moines, Iowa, who is presently residing in Burlingame, until January, when he will become a full time teacher. Dr. Burnett is instructing only one class Biology S-6, on Tuesday and Thursday mornings. He is now at Stanford, where he tion of the Science Teacher." In addition to these, he has been co-author of "Biology For Better Living," as well as a member of advisory staff of six other scientific books, including the text which is now used in classes at State.

A favorite with the students, Dr. Burnett is five foot nine in-has spent the past four years. Before this time he was a professor at Columbia for two years.

At the age of thirty-three, Dr. Burnett has earned his M.A. and Ph. D., is the father of two boys, one three years, and the other six months. He is the author of two scientific books, "To Live in Better Health" and "The Educa-ches and has dark brown hair and a mustache. Dr. Burnett's eyes sparkle behind his glasses as he keeps his class interested in the subject and fascinated with his stories of his past scientific experiences. He seems more like a fellow student than a teacher, and is well liked by his pupils and members of the faculty.

State of State

With school spirit just squishing out all over the place, 'tis time to meditate, evaluate, and alleviate. To illustrate:

Who in the name of Benny Stark (That's my uncle on my mother's side. He likes to see his name in newspapers) ever picked purple and gold for the college colors?

A color scheme far more representative, would be blond and brunette, but as this would offend the people with red or emerald hair, maybe we should switch to pink and baby blue, as this is a coeducational college. Thank you.

Next topic: Who in the name of Jack Bik (That's my brother. He's going to support me after I graduate) ever picked the alligator for State's mascot? This reptile seems entirely inappropriate for symbolic purposes. Alligators just lie in the sun all day, opening and closing their mouths. . . Hmmm, let's keep the alligator.

The College needs a much higher enrollment, so as to create more part-time jobs in the Co-op. These jobs must be created of we are to take care of the job needs of the increased enrollment. Therefore, the name of the College must be spread far and wide. In this, the post-war, the people of the world must be told, patiently, tolerantly, that "S. F. State Col." does not mean, "Have a Coke."

Daughter of Mine

By HY BIK

(There's some kind of a tune to this thing, we guess. See if you can figure it out.)

I didn't raise my girl to go to college.

I didn't stop her when she had begun;

I thought perhaps that she might gain some knowledge,

But now they've got my daughter on the run.

They asked her what she wanted for her major.

"P.E., please," was what the poor girl said.

And now I'm willing to give odds and wager

She should have taken something else instead.

Hockey was the game that they first gave her.

The other girls were all a little green.

It seemed that nothing on this earth could save her

When they mistook the puck for daughter's bean.

She went down south to watch the team in scrimmage.

That's one trip my daughter shouldn't have made,

For after looking at the poor girl's image,

I'm sure that football isn't what they played.

My daughter started working for the Gater;

'T was another of her off the moment whims.

Now Osorio vainly tries to date her,

And Rubin sits and contemplates her limbs.

I'm puzzled by this higher education—

I guess I'm just an average citizen.

But after hearing daughter's information,

I think I'll go get married once again.

I didn't raise my girl to go to college,

But I can see it has its better parts.

Though she may not have acquired knowledge,

She'll grab herself a Bachelor of Arts.

Last week's appearance of Life Lines marks the last time the column was featured in the Gater, as the writer, Miss Bonnie Harris, is leaving school. The feature editor of the Gater wishes, at this time, to express sincere gratitude and appreciation to Miss Harris for the enduring service rendered to the Gater.

EDITORIALS Election Turnout Start Of New Political Decade

Perhaps the best indication that State is at long last coming out of a bout of hibernation is the fine solid turnout of candidates for the class elections. In contrast with the immediately preceding years, over thirty students ran for office, and only one major office was uncontested. It is this healthy attitude of competition that will lead State back into the realms of normal campus life. When men and women fight for what they get, they necessarily take their victory more seriously. They shall not be content to bask in the glory of their office as a stagnant honorary position; rather, they shall find it imperative to fulfill every qualification of their station, to the utmost of their abilities, in order that they may even keep the respect and cooperation of their constituents.

Certainly it is the duty of us, the student body, to be as exacting and as demanding as we possibly can, of our student and class leaders. It is through this practice, and this practice only, that we shall be able to segregate those people of exceptional ability, whom we must choose as our officers, from the masses. By the same token, we owe it to our leaders, to cooperate and coordinate to such an extent, that they shall consider it not only a duty, but an honor to serve us. In this manner we shall gain the political atmosphere that is so conducive to an outstanding college.

SUCCESSFUL DANCE UP TO STUDENTS

The Pigskin Scrimmage, which is being held tonight at 8:30 in the Women's Gym, marks the opening of State's fall social season.

The success or failure of this first student body enterprise is in the hands of the students themselves. It is up to the individual Stater whether or not this semester's social activities are to take on any of the glory which State's social events of the past have displayed.

It is only with the success of this first dance that future social events can be carried out with any degree of confidence.

There can be no real excuse for failure now. If the last year's social events, held at a time when State was in the throes of a manpower shortage, met with success, there can be no room for rationalization now.

"I haven't got the gas!" or "I can't find a man!" have gone out with Hirohito.

Let's wake up. Let's follow the lead set by that group of students who last Friday evening braved the elements to trek down to Hollister and give support to our team.

HOLLISTER HAYRIDE

By RENEE LABOURE

Ah students, you're caught again! On that excursion to Hollister last week, much news was in the making. It was a little drafty on the moving van, but there was no excuse for the lack of ventilation in Don Pagani's car. Ummm Betty, Helena and Shirley!

"Bangs" Stence seems to be monopolizing Phi Eta Chi's time. Not only did Vince O'Leary appear interested last Friday afternoon at the Rally Bowl, but Brother Rubin was simply entranced Friday evening. Intellectual huddle of course!

When an innocent, little low-freshie asked Selene who Dee Longacre was, the answer was, "Ask Doug Towers or Stu Saunders." It is rumored that their interest isn't platonic.

Journalism has gone to Bill Kennerley's head, but not literally. Tonight he will escort Pat Healy to the Pigskin Scrimmage. Is the interest purely journalistic, Bill?

Have you met Betty Hickman's new assistant business manager? He is Dick Wyands, lifeguard last summer, and on the team this term. No objections, Vince?

Seen after the big game at Hollister, Elm Roelling, (that nice, nice boy from Antioch) and Phyllis again. Let's be fair, Capt., why not give all the girls a break? Or do you?

Pat Wilkensen has many of the men about the campus interested. Especially interested Hollister night was Ed Clay. Phil Ryan has her phone number, and he thinks she is awfully cute.

Always a noticeable—Ray Milton was at the football game Friday night, escorting Alpha Omega. Have they made you mascot yet, Ray?

Harriet Charles, the Lorraine Day of the campus, has many male hearts aflutter. It appears she still has Ed Osorio's heart palpitating, or weren't we supposed to notice that.

Of feminine interest is . . . George Albrecht's build, Bob Seiler's hair, and the Navy Blues!

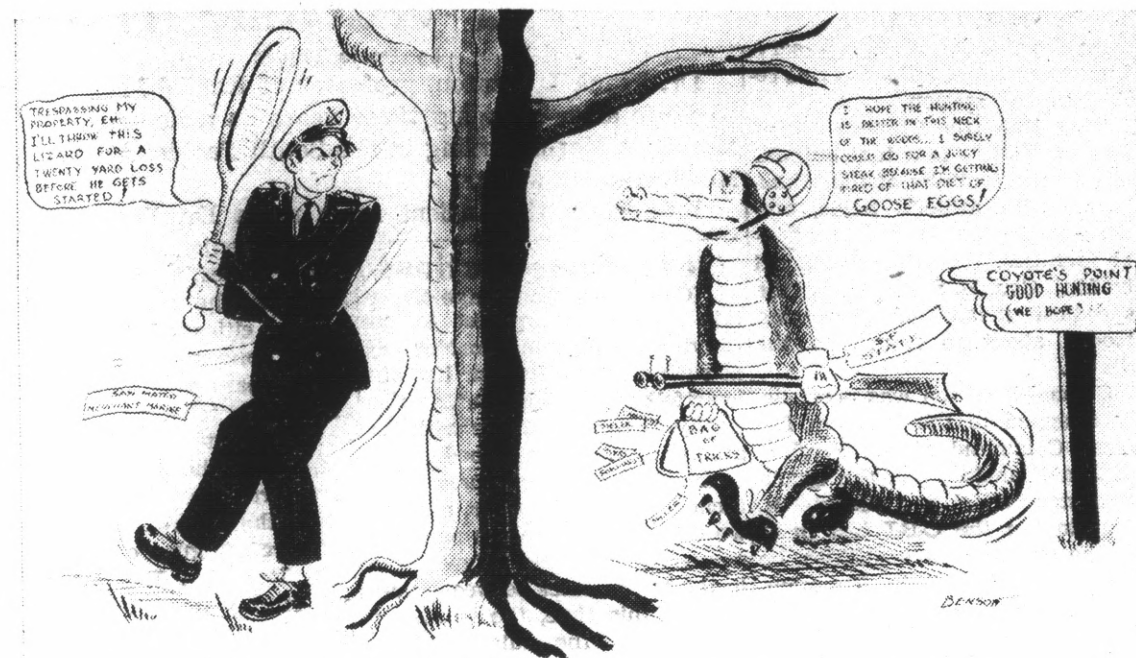

Of masculine interest is . . . Carol Coleman; cute, little Jackie Fragen; and all other two-legged women.

Duane LaMon and former State student Paul Desmond have decided to have a Valentine wedding and plan to take the momentous step February 14.

It has been reported from the usual reliable sources that LeCanavan and Caroline Nahman are that way about each other. The validity of which can be verified by Ed Murray.

There is a campaign going on to corrupt Harry Erlich. All petitions should be submitted to P.O. box 1010. Here's your chance, Gmille.

GATORS vs. CADETS TOMORROW

Gators 3 to 1 Underdogs; Kickoff Set at 2 P.M.

Seeking their first victory of the season, the San Francisco State Gators clash with the powerful San Mateo Merchant Marine Cadet School, at the San Mateo Junior College field at 2:00 p.m. Saturday. In two games this season, the Cadets are undefeated and unscored upon.

Last week, while State was battling San Benito to a scoreless tie, the Merchant Marines rolled up a 47 to 0 score against Porterville J. C., and earlier in the year took San Benito 12 to 0. Lt. Al Fagetti and his crew are out to keep their perfect record unblemished.

Experience Counts

Although the Gators will enter this fray with game experience under their belts, which they lacked last week, they will be playing with a handicap of injuries to several players. Consequently, Coach Dan Farmer is contemplating several changes in his starting lineup, and will not be certain until game time.

Casualties, Galore

During the San Benito game, Elm Roelling suffered a fractured wrist and will see little action tomorrow. Farmer received another jolt when Dan Miller bruised his shoulder and ribs, although he is expected to start at fullback in Roelling's place.

New Shifts

Stu Saunders has been shifted to quarterback, and Bill Powers will take over Saunders' center position. Reserve center

Dick Wind has been moved to guard, leaving Don Pagani still available for the pivot post.

Starting halfbacks will be Austin Myers and Bob Seilers. John Scharetz and Jess Juarez will again get the call at guard, and Paul Strickland at right tackle. Jack Armstrong or Bob Rivers may get the call at left tackle over Len Canavan, as the latter has been ill this week.

Al Albrecht will again start at right end, while Jack Burns will probably get the call at the left flank. Bill Kennerley is nursing a bruised shoulder and leg, but Ed Murray and Jack Pillieri are being counted upon for end duty.

Coach Pleased

Farmer was highly pleased with the Gators' defensive showing against San Benito last week but was not satisfied with their signal calling and choice of plays. State's most successful plays were not used enough, while two potentially good weak-side plays were not tried at all.

Probable starting lineups:

Intramural Tennis Needs More Players

With mixed doubles tennis games already started, students are again reminded that there is still time to sign up for the tournament. Last Wednesday on the upper tennis courts, Eleanor Gigli and George Albrecht defeated Flo Bercut and Marc Gelles, 6-3. On another court, Bernice Crohare and Ed Murray overpowered Betty Henri and John Scharetz, 6-4. All students interested in playing mixed doubles are urged to contact Clara Caburi, Bernice Crohare, Mrs. B. Drury or Mr. Ray Kaufman immediately. The success of this tournament depends upon students' cooperation and support. Sign up now!

INTRAMURAL STARTS FOR FALL TERM

The tournament, under the direction of Mr. Ray Kaufman, will run every Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday on the upper field at 12 noon. Members of the Block S have been designated as referees.

Emphasizing the need for student support of the tournament, Ed Murray, who is cooperating with Mr. Kaufman in running the tournament, predicts a successful season.

Members of the intramural teams are:

Ryan, Dick Wyands, Ed Tracy, Winston Silva, Ralph Azavedo, Pete Weiss and Ken Carson.

State Battles to Scoreless Tie With San Benito J.C.

LOU RUBIN

Battling to a scoreless tie with the San Benito Junior College at Hollister Stadium, San Francisco State's football varsity opened its 1945 season last Friday. Although the two teams were evenly matched, the fact that this was State's first game, while the Junior College had already had a game under its belt, was probably the difference between a tie, and victory.

Elm Roelling, State captain, carried the brunt of the Purple and Gold attack—doing a good portion of the ball carrying and all of the kicking and passing. Much praise must be given Roelling for the hard fighting spirit he displayed in playing a brilliant defensive game and a hard-fought offensive.

San Benito completely dominated the first half, and especially the first quarter. The home team used a double wing offense and a six-two-two-one defense. Fillis and Ostrand were the big guns in the Hollister attack, Fillis in particular was able to shake himself free for several long runs. As a matter of fact he also did all of San Benito's passing and kicking.

Penalty Receives Score

However, in the second half State's offense began to function and the Purple and Gold started throwing its weight around. Using a straight double wing, the Gators were able to make several drives down the field. With Elm Roelling carrying the ball three out of every four times, State stuck to line plunge and bucks as an offensive weapon. In the last part of the third quarter and the early portion of the fourth, San Benito seriously threatened to win. San Benito, taking the ball on its own twenty-nine yard line, tried three unsuccessful passes; and then Follis, starting from a fake punt formation, reversed around his own right end for thirty-four yards. On the next play, Follis again took the ball, and on a cutback, rambled twenty more yards to the State twenty-six before he was hit by Bob Seiler. After an end run failed, Follis hit the center of the line for five. Len Canavan was hurt on the play and Bob Rivers came in at tackle for State. Follis again hit the center of the line for four yards and a first down on the State fifteen. Bill Kennerley took in for Murray at end, and Ostrand immediately went around him for six yards. On the next play, State was off-side and the ball went to the four yard line. Ostrand again hit the line for three yards and the ball went to the one yard line.

On the next play San Benito was off-side and the ball was set back to the sixth. At this point Canavan returned to the tSate lineup, and Follis hit the right tackle for a total of five yards on two plays. With the ball on the one yard line and fourth down coming up, it was a tense and dramatic moment. Follis took the ball from a double wing and going off his own right tackle went over for the score. However the play was called back and San Benito was penalized for again being offside. With another chance presented him, Follis again hit the same spot, but this time a stalwart fighting State line held. The Purple and Gold took over on downs, and Roelling kicked out from behind his own goal to the State twenty-nine and the danger was over.

State might well have won the game if they had made full use of their potentialities. Only two end runs were called, even though both plays were worth at least ten yards. Dan Miller and Winnie ten yards. However, in all fairness this was the first game, and many of the men were in the first game of their career.

Block "S" Will Police Dance

Sensing the need for a semblance of order, the Block S has promised to help police the Pigskin Scrimmage dance tonight in the Women's Gym. On the alert for gate crashers and rowdies, the Block "S" will do its level best to see to it that all is tranquil or else.

Pursuing its intended vigorous program for this fall term, the Block S has also issued its "what not to wear around the campus" bulletin. Beginning next week, anyone caught wearing the colors of another college will be asked to desist politely,

Tennis Class Upsets Junior Gators

Officially opening the intra-mural football program for the fall term, the mighty Tennis Class, led by Jim McGilley and Norb Ferreira, overpowered the Junior Gator squad by the lopsided score of 19 to 6.

The game opened with a bang when plucky Winnie Myers, Junior Gator back, lofted a beautiful pass to Gil Salom, who was standing on the opponents goal line, and scored.

Smarting from the tail of a 6 to 0 score, the Tennis Class roared back with a terrific pass attack. Jim McGilley faded back and tossed a long spiralling pass to Bill O'Neill who scampered for a tally. Later Jim McGilley again proved his mettle by tossing 50 yard toss to Norb Ferreira. On the next play Chuck again hobbled for another score.

With a minute to go, Ferreira snapped a short pass to Angin, who scooted over for another tally. Final score 19 to 6.

W. A. A.

Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Wakefield and Dr. Butler, a folk dancing class is being held each Tuesday in the Women's Gym from 12 to 1. This class, open to both men and women, is made up of students and faculty. Square dancing as well as folk dancing has been received with success and is going along fine.

There is still time for men and women to sign up for the fencing class conducted in the Women's Gym on Tuesday night from 5 to 8 p.m. Students are welcome to come any time between five and eight. Instructions will be given by Miss Bernadette Fratessa, a former State student.

Under the management of Gloria Gamba, men and women from State have been bowling on Monday night between six and eight at the Downtown Bowl. Students may still sign up for this activity by notifying Miss Gamba well in advance so the lanes may be reserved.

The W. A. A. tennis tournament which is handling the mixed doubles and the women's singles and doubles in conjunction with Mr. Ray Kaufman, has sent out an urgent appeal to all students interested in playing tennis to see Miss Clara Caburi or Mr. Ray Kaufman as soon as possible.

Student Agatheans

"Christian life is not merely a system of doctrines and ethics but all that plus the personality which carries on these values in a Christian-like spirit. Peace, love and joy will lead our daily walk of life if we will let our life be motivated by our Christian living."

Norman B. Harrison, writer of the "His" series, spoke these words at the meeting of the Student Agatheans last Wednesday in the First Baptist Church. Mr. Harrison has been touring the United States as a speaker and Bible teacher. He has written a number of books and promised to send samples of his written material to the members of the Agatheans.

Special solos were sung by Charlotte Milling, State college student, and Walter Klime.

Next meeting will be held Friday, October 19, in the Baptist Church.

Former Stater Based In C B I

Camp Ting Hao, Kunming, China — Lt. Colonel Robert M. Petersen, graduate of State College with the class of '35, is now serving as personnel officer at this re-deployment station.

Ting Hao (the Chinese equivalent of "O.K.") is a tent outdoor city in the foothills of the Himalayas, with athletic fields, outdoor movies and other recreational facilities, recently established by Maj. Gen. H. S. Aurand as the speediest means of processing troops about to return to the States.

Colonel Petersen was previously assigned to the Western Defense Command at the Presidio of San Francisco and the Quartermaster School at Philadelphia. Arriving in the C-B-I just prior to the cessation of hostilities, he flew "the Hump" to Kunming, where he now supervises the selection of officers and men on point and service basis for shipment home.

Frederic Burk Plans Xmas Boxes

Red Cross representatives visited Frederic Burk recently at the invitation of Betty Jennings, student teacher and chairman of the Junior Red Cross in Frederic Burk, and met with student teachers in reference to the future work of the organization.

The children at Frederic Burk will make gift boxes containing school supplies and needed equipment for the children of the war-torn countries. Last year the boxes were sent to Europe, but this year they will go to the Philippines and China. The children will also continue their work for the wounded soldiers.

Dr. Fenton Returns To State; Recounts His Wartime Travels

By Doris Thulin

Dr. Frank L. Fenton, professor of English, has returned to State after spending three years as a lieutenant in the Merchant Marine sailing in the South Pacific, Atlantic, and Mediterranean waters.

Interest in the ancient ruins made Dr. Fenton's visits tain a germ of interest for us (anything that can consider sex at such an ungodly hour has our heartfelt admiration) but, aesthetically, it can't compare with the afore-mentioned w. t. bed.

The propagating paramedica tucked back into their alcohol, we dash madly for the smoking porch and consume a few packs in the ten minutes between classes. By this time, the sun is up and we hear the ululating chant of the California sun-worshippers; Tote that barge
Lift that bale
Please, dear God
Send us a male.

Lunch-hour is passed by playing a game in which the females form a circle around one of the six males on the campus, and slash at each other for ten minutes with well-honed razors; the winner who gets to talk to said male, is the one with the most flesh left at the end of the ten-minute period.

Classes continue through the afternoon, as classes have a habit of doing, by which time we have managed to pry one eye open. This proves to have been a very shrewd move as we discover we've forgotten one shoe, which had hitherto-forgotten given us the appearance of a frustrated crab. Walking on our knees to avoid undue attention, we finally manage to slither home with knees bloody, but unbowed.

Moral of which is: I shoulda stood in bed.

Relationship Committee Set for Frederic Burk

A relationship committee, which arranges for the activities and events of Frederic Burk, has been appointed and is already at work.

The general chairman of the committee is Claire Peck who is assisted by Rita O'Neil, chairman of the conservation committee, and Mary Hintze.

abroad enjoyable. In Bone, North Africa, he visited theaters built on the ruins of the old Roman cities of 495 A.D., and found concentrated in one spot, "2,000 years of history." On the edge of a town were the ruins of the theater with a large cathedral in the background, and in contrast to this ancient scene were the surrounding modern anti-aircraft guns of the British.

In Italy Dr. Fenton had the opportunity to visit many of the historic sites, and also to attend the opera. He attended "Rigoletto" in Naples with the captain and first mate of his ship. Because of the captain's rank all three were seated in the royal box with a British general and many dignified English women. At the end of the first act the captain stood up and shouted, "Bravo," to the enjoyment of the Italian sailors present. Horrified, an English woman seated in the box exclaimed, "Oh, my deah."

Visits Opera

In Naples Dr. Fenton visited the not yet officially opened museum, where he saw statues from Pompeii and other cities he had visited. Seeing these things among the fragments of buildings and plaster from the ceilings was more exciting to him than a shining, orderly exhibit would have been.

The dock area in Naples had been bombed, but the opera house remained untouched. In Milan the opera house was completely destroyed. Leghorn, where so many famous writers have lived and vacationed, was in ruins. The buildings were crumbling and the shutters from one building crashed at Dr. Fenton's feet as he walked along. Sitting in what had been the park in Leghorn, he heard an explosion—a block away a hidden time-bomb had sent another building to the ground.

Leaning Tower Not Damaged

The leaning tower of Pisa was not damaged, and Florence is in good condition, according to Dr. Fenton. In Venice where the least damage was done, he saw many paintings which had been recovered from German hands, attended the outdoor operas, and viewed the ancient buildings.

Europeans are interested in the United States, according to Dr. Fenton. A student from the University of Naples declared that there is no hope for the future of European young people. The politics of Europe are in a frightful condition and the only hope for Europe is in America. Dr. Fenton said that Americans are welcome there, and that the people will share their last crumbs with an American.

Dr. Fenton was in Marseilles, in southern France, awaiting orders for an important mission when news was received that the war had ended. He was immediately sent back to the United States. Happy to be back in the College, Dr. Fenton said that State is about to become the College she aspires to be. "It is good to be here at such a time," he concluded.
